EXPERIENCE

With ten years of litigation experience, Ruth Moore focuses her practice on representing and counseling oil and gas clients on litigation matters. Ruth's energy litigation experience has included litigating and negotiation resolutions of vendor, contractor, and customer disputes; challenging Oil and Gas Conservation Commission regulations under the Administrative Procedure Act; and obtaining a judgment invalidating a municipal oil and gas assessment. Ruth was a member of a team that obtained a $26 million judgment in favor of a natural gas utility company for breach of a gas gathering agreement. Ruth has also submitted amicus briefs on behalf of a trade organization in cases of significance to the oil and gas industry.

Before joining Beatty & Wozniak, Ruth was an associate at a large global law firm and a litigation boutique in Los Angeles. Ruth's experience there comprised a variety of complex business litigation matters, including intellectual property, contract, consumer fraud, class action, environmental damage, products liability, constitutional, and appellate litigation.
